

My Experience Studying Abroad

RIVAS IGLESIAS Tharik

It doesn't feel that long since I wrote my first monthly report, the time went by so fast, and now I find myself writing the final report at the end of my participation in the promotion project.

Before coming to Japan, I had my fair share of preoccupations. I heard from other international students to be careful of loneliness, it claws you down and doesn't easily let you go. However, my concerns were easily dissipated when I got to know both international students and HOSEI students. This, I must say, was made easier due to HOSEI's programs and events that help foreign students socialize and get to experience various aspects of life in Japan. So, every time I felt down, I knew I could rely on my Japanese friends, dorm friends, or other international students to talk or just to have fun.

Coming down to academic life, I decided to take more social sciences-oriented classes, aside from the Japanese language classes, and I was completely satisfied with my decision. In each class, we got to discuss complex subjects about Asian history and Japanese society, subjects that I found profoundly interesting and that I find myself passionate about, and much is due to the professors' energy and passion with which they teach.

Once I return to Mexico and I'm asked about my experience in HOSEI, I will let them know, through my experience why is one of the best universities in Japan.
