

With my loved ones

Gyuyoung Lee

It always touches my heart to say that time passes when I blink. The saying that a trip with a regret is the best trip is always with me at the end of my trip. That's how I'm going to end this exchange student period with a regret.

Tough moments are a great comfort

Living in a foreign country is always lonely. Even if someone is with you all the time, living away from home always feels alone. Nevertheless, we should be proud of ourselves as we move forward and leave our longing for home behind when we have traveled far to explore the world. A new journey cannot be perfect. There will always be adversity and we must overcome it in our own way. However, adversity is the evidence that I am living a fierce life. There were many times when I had to carry more burdens despite my difficulties in a foreign country, but there were many times when I felt comfortable considering that these are the processes of trying to live a rewarding life even if I live a day.

Precious people

It is a miracle that we were able to meet like this, where we can live without knowing each other's existence that we will never meet. It is happiness to be able to ask how each other is and spend time together. I don't think there is anything cooler than interacting with various people outside of one's domain and learning and understanding across boundaries.

Being friends doesn't matter how different lives we have lived and how different thoughts and goals we have now.

If we are just ready to accept what we are without any prejudice against others, we will be able to make friends anywhere on Earth.

The relationships I met at Hosei University and Japan gave me countless beautiful moments. The happiness

I received enough from them will not be enough even if I pay them back my whole life. I want to let all of them know that my short time here is just the beginning of our relationship.

Thank you Hosei and see you again.

If we desperately want, we can meet anytime and anywhere.
